National Postal Forum Starts Today – and Stays Open for the Next 30 Days

The 2021 virtual National Postal Forum (NPF) starts today September 20 through Wednesday, September 22, 2021, with insightful content from USPS leaders. Along with three officer- led sessions – one hour discussions on logistics, security and technology - 21 general workshops on postal products and services, and industry trends. Register today for access to this content and much more throughout the three-day event. To register directly, CLICK HERE.

Postmaster General Louis DeJoy discusses the state of the Postal Service on September 20, 2021 – the first day of the Fall virtual National Postal Forum. Register now to learn more about the purpose of the Delivering for America Plan, how it is successfully transforming the Postal Service into the future, and how the plan will deliver for our customers. In addition to this news magazine style interview, PMG DeJoy discusses other key components of the plan and current business activity with senior USPS officials. Executive Leadership Team members provide in-depth analysis and information on USPS capital planning, peak holiday season planning, postal product and service updates and much more. The Postmaster General also has an in-depth conversation with industry leaders from the PCC Advisory Committee.

If you are not able to attend the forum September 20-22, don't worry, attendees will have access to information for thirty days after the event and will be able to provide their organizations with insights and planning for the upcoming mailing and shipping season. With the new NPF virtual platform, attendees have the opportunity to view hours of programming at their convenience.
